

Triana Science & Technology will participate with ESA (European Space Agency) in the logistic of the new protein crystallization experiment under micro-gravity which will be performed in the FOTON M3 Spacecraft. This mission is planned to be launched by September 2007.